Dollar Tree stores will have collection boxes available at checkout in which shoppers can place their purchased toys through December 5. The toys will be collected by Operation Homefront volunteers and distributed at the nonprofit's holiday events across the country and through on-base Family Readiness Groups. Making the season brighter for military families is what this partnership is all about, and Dollar Tree and its generous customers have made that joy possible since 2006.

"Dollar Tree is very proud to partner with Operation Homefront to help serve military families through their annual Holiday Toy Drive program," said Chelle Davis, Dollar Tree spokesperson. "Supporting our nation's military families is a high priority for Dollar Tree and we would like to thank our generous customers who help us make the holidays a little brighter for military families across the country."

"We are absolutely thrilled to have the continued support of Dollar Tree and their caring customers for our Holiday Toy Drive program again this year," said Brig. Gen. (ret.) John I. Pray Jr., president & CEO of Operation Homefront. "Our work together over the past 13 years clearly demonstrates our collective appreciation for all our military families do for all of us, and how we can help give this very special and deserving group of our fellow Americans an opportunity to thrive in the communities they have worked so hard to protect."
